

The Parents Community Service Network and Corlears School Present

HOMELESS BUT NOT HELPLESS:

Building a better understanding of homelessness and how kids can help

Wednesday, February 27, 2019, 6-8 PM

Corlears School, 324 W15th Street, New York, NY 10011

Growing up in a city like New York, students are exposed to issues of homelessness every day. Yet for many parents, understanding the root causes of homelessness is confounding, and talking with our school-age children about how to effect change is equally challenging. Corlears School and PCSN invite you to an evening of information and exploration of homelessness in NYC, including insights on what students can do - and are already doing - to help. Thanks in advance to our speakers:

Dr. Van Yu Chief Medical Officer, Center for Urban Community Services

Theresa Young, MSW Director, Helen's House at Henry Street Settlement

Divya Sundaram Policy & Civic Engagement Coordinator, Community Voices Heard

The evening includes a SERVICE FAIR with displays of student volunteer work on homelessness, and a SUPPLY DRIVE for NYC Mamas Give Back. Attendees are encouraged to bring diapers (size 4-6) and wipes to benefit young families in need.

The event is free and open to parents and educators. Space is limited and registration is required.

To register go to: <https://bit.ly/2FV3lwP>

Founded in 2013, the Parents Community Service Network (PCSN) is a New York City-based parent network that coordinates and collaborates with schools, nonprofits and other stakeholders to enrich and deepen the experience of community service for all involved. parentscommunityservicenetwork.org

Corlears School is dedicated to the education of children from nursery school through 5th grade. Their project based approach and caring community provides children with the foundation they need to flexibly solve complex problems, and grow into high achieving, thoughtful and compassionate emerging leaders. corlearsschool.org